Chinese Folklore, Art, Dance, Music & Instruments “BAWSHOU & THE WATER DRAGON”

A TRADITIONAL CHINESE HERO TALE - PARTICIPATORY PAGEANT

What would you do if the Sun was captured by a powerful Dragon, and hidden in a cave, deep beneath the sea? In this traditional Chinese tale of wonder and adventure, the young boy Bawshou bravely sets out to rescue the Sun from its dark prison. With the help of the magic golden Phoenix, Bawshou is able to meet the dragon's three great challenges, and heroically restores the land to prosperity for his people.

In this artistically rich telling, Bells & Motley evoke a magical atmosphere through ageless symbols, costumes, dance, and performance techniques of the Orient. The action and mystique of the tale are further highlighted by live music on authentic Chinese traditional stringed, wind, & percussion instruments, including pipa, erhu, moon lute, guzhung (the ancient zither-harp), plus audience participation on gongs, temple bells, & theater drums!

WORKSHOPS & RESIDENCY OPTIONS:

A performance of Bawshou frequently is preceded by an artist workshop. Here participants will gain an appreciation of Chinese arts & traditions, an understanding of the importance and meaning of this traditional story, and prepare for their own special roles in the storytelling presentation through dance, movement, music, & maskmaking.

First, to prime young imaginations, there's a slide program of dragon images, presenting the attributes, symbolic meanings, and detailed characteristics of traditional dragons. Next, those details are translated into the medium of Chinese paper mask-making, as children learn special paper-cutting techniques, then design, and create their own unique and fantastical paper dragon masks. Wearing their colorful streaming creations, children participate in a dragon dance procession with great fanfare, playing their starring role as the sinuous dragon of the “Bawshou” storytelling performance.

Further pre-performance workshop activities can also prepare audience members for supporting roles in the play, including sound effects, river shakers, theatrical villagers, ceremonial gong players, and more. All is flexible according to your time allowance.

Additional workshops are available in an extended format. For example, participants can learn to create the archetypal calligraphic symbols related to our story - the Dragon, Sun, Phoenix, Joy, making & decorating a paper lantern of their own creation. Learn lantern & ribbon dances. Practice traditional Chinese songs, creative sound effects, play on simple instruments, and for Orff programs, perform special instrumental pieces to collaborate in the pageant performance.

“...As a Children's Librarian, I will add that I too enjoyed the performance very much. The creativity, devotion, & artistic talent of these musician/folk-tellers is far above the caliber I have seen anywhere. I highly recommend Bells & Motley.”

-Mary Jo Cohan, Bayport Public Library, Bluepoint, NY

“...We enjoyed your performance of “Bawshou & the Dragon” so much! Your use of props, costumes, and instruments was such an integral part of the story, and kept the audience involved from the minute the story began. I especially appreciated the way you related to the audience -- by speaking to the children ahead of time; drawing them into the performance with participation; letting them experience the instruments after the show...The story certainly gave us a taste of Chinese culture in a very real and authentic way. I really look forward to having you here again.”

Helpful Information, Fees

- For library audiences, children seated on the floor up close to the performers creates an intimate, inclusive atmosphere that young children appreciate.

- We prefer natural acoustics whenever possible. In general, indoor audiences of up to 150 don't need amplification, in keeping with the spirit of a historical performance.

+ Maskmaking equipment list includes scissors, gluesticks, staplers, and hole punches. Parental assistance requested for any child too young to manage scissors adeptly. Consumable materials fee is approximately $2.00 per child.

PERFORMANCE FEES: NYS DEC grants should go in as $600 + travel. Fees for additional workshops & residencies will be negotiated, according to numbers of participants, ages, including block booking discounts, etc.
